CREED & VALUES

TF?!

please read our manifesto and creed on our value systems goals:

- *demonstrate the value of our combined demographic
- *allow people to find peers and influencers to engage with while curating low pressure, fun but understanding and judgement free environments rooted in a family dynamic.
- *help foster friendly and friendship dynamics built off of other things outside of "differences" and "disabilities" like job interest, hobbies, events, style, arts and crafts and perks.

core values: the uniquely different of this world, still should have a safe space and be treated with some kind of compassion until they are proven to be horrid people outside of their actual disability/difference. a disability or unique difference does not ascertain that the individual is a vile or corrupt person. this way of thinking is a limiting belief system curated to brainwash people into further segregation.

network of peers and people who can easily identify one another as a peer of the platform and essentially, automatically know the values and systems of that person. think, an entrepreneurship, creed of courtesy and compassion to become more effective within creative collaborative dynamics that assist in connecting and curating.

one day you're walking down the street and you see the TF?! logo big and bright on a t-shirt and automatically think, hey i have one similar to that. off the bat you begin to wonder if this person is part of the TF?! hub but feel reluctant to ask. later on, at another event, you are introduced to the person and ask them about their shirt. In which they tell you of our hub. in that moment you feel an intrinsic familiarity with them, and tell them you're part of the same hub. a bond is formed. an unspoken sense of knowing. a familiarity of understanding... maybe you felt ostracized at some point while they survived cancer. maybe you have a little one diagnosed with autism while they were working as a caretaker with other ambitions... either way.. the two of you meet and just get it. your network expands. you both feel a bit less alone and now.. the doors open for collaboration and peer to peer projects to be discovered. at the bare minimum, you made a connection with a new person & know you don't have to worry about any judgement. TF?!, an inclusive collab hub that provides deals and perks as people upgrade their plans.

ideology: being kind can still be cool and is always the most effective tactic in building newer bonds and connections. in a perfect world, people are actively trying to live their best lives, in the easiest fluid but non harmful ways as possible. people who were outcasted, taunted and belittled for "differences" find an authentic hub of people who have similar desires and beliefs when it comes to pursuing the art of happiness. we like snarky, sarcastic, edgy fun and cool but keep the compassion on high. we lead with pride and defend whats right. we keep the judging not based on religion, creed, race or gender but instead onthe truly vile acts of this world.

culture: we do not bully. we listen to understand. we are solution orientated, and therefore try to offer helpful options to further foster proper suitable environments and remedies. we hold our critiques for in house communication. we believe that we can learn something from almost everyone despite age, look, sex, creed, culture, class, race etc. we try to build relationship dynamic on authenticity but lead in all professional settings with our best foot forward which means an emphasis on a respectful kind compassion nature. we believe in family and unity and try to not leave people in distress or too much isolation.
