

tf?! | the #getmoney creative contest : tf?! | stands for tradefor: a collaborative liaison hub rooted in bartering for those that assign as special, different, neuro-diverse, alter-normative, chronically-ill, survivors, warriors, disabled and/or their allies, whether relatives or their peers/advocates to trade their time, skills, talents and resources among one another to control their own narrative.

this is just one of our ways we hope to add value to the special community and their allies. along with our annual autism event, our meetup & talk back creative sessions we hope this is a start to building our fund with longevity in mind, and giving back to creatives. who hopefully this can be the start to our creative fund that allows creatives from all walks of life to find success and keep success. winner will receive anywhere from $250.00 USD to $1,000.00 USD as a micro-grant of this contest to use towards any of their artistic, creative, entrepreneurial or business endeavors. we all know the term #getmoney well, we hope this can be the seed in not only us growing and cultivating and channeling financial success but also a seed in assisting another company start theirs.

sometimes you have to give to get, and in this framework, we want to help you get, to give.

-with this grant, you do not have to look to pay it back.

-with this grant you still control your company and all of its stake.

contest begins nov. 10th 2022 and ends jan. 10th 2022. dependent upon the response and feedback whether we even get applicants/if the applicants like it, how we may be able to adjust and/or add monies to the fund), we may open applications, after the initial date as a rolling application.

we will ask for applicant feedback on how they liked the process & if they'd be interested in other business resources thereafter. Other than that we will not reach out in communication until closer to the announcement of the winner.
